

MAYOR WILSON TO TAKE LEGAL ACTION SEEKING SHOWDOWN

Verbal Warfare, Phila. Mayor
vs. Legislative Committee
Breaks Anew

SEEKS OUT FACTS

Committee "Not Yet Ready to Discuss the Matter"
Says Ruth

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, July 27—Verbal warfare between Mayor S. Davis Wilson and the Ruth Legislative Committee threatened to break out anew today as the Mayor, more bitter than ever, declared he would take legal action to force a showdown.

Unscrupulous persons were attempting to wreck his administration by circulating rumors he had been a party to a municipal vice graft plot, claimed the Mayor.

"I am going to demand that the Ruth Committee give all the facts in the case either at a public hearing or through a statement," Wilson said. "If they have anything against me I demand they produce it."

"I have been fighting these battles for years, and have come through three or four investigations of this character, and have been able to show that my life is an open book. Why I could have had $1,000,000 if I had been willing to work with crooked contractors and utility companies.

State Senator Frank W. Ruth at his home in Bernville, Berks County, said he was familiar with the Mayor's accusation, but that the Committee "was not yet ready to discuss the matter, but will demand them at the proper time."

The latest development followed the Mayor's disclosures that notes found in the possession of Wallace Ely, State Trooper held in $5,000 bail on a charge of tapping the wires of the Mayor's secretary, linked him, his secretary and political lieutenant as suspected beneficiaries of gambling house graft.

Seek Three Young Bandits

Philadelphia, July 27—Three young bandits, each of whom carried two pistols, were being sought today following a hold-up in which they escaped with $640 after threatening eleven members of a beneficial company with death, as they attempted to sound an alarm.

The trio methodically stripped their eleven captives of $430, after herding them into a side room and then scooped up $210.

Sees Cutting of National Debt

Washington, July 27—Federal government will not only balance its budget in the next year, but in 1939 it will begin to cut down the huge national debt, Representative Clarence J. Cannon, Democrat, of Missouri, acting chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, predicted today. The administration plans, he said, will make unnecessary a new tax bill as predicted by critics of the administration's spending policy.

Non-Intervention Efforts May Fail

(Copyrighted by I. N. S.)

London, July 27—If Britain's compromise non-intervention plan fails, the government will declare Europe's entire non-intervention effort—designed to keep Spanish Civil War from spreading upon her boundaries—null and void, International News Service learned today.

Irritated by bickering among members of the international non-intervention committee over the compromise plans, Britain has notified France of her intention to wash her hands of the whole affair unless an agreement is reached. In doing so, Britain will resume "liberty of action" regarding the Spanish war, granting belligerent rights to both sides. This development followed dropping of a bomb shell into the deliberation by the Soviet Ambassador.

U. S. Gets Davis Cup

Wimbledon, England, July 27—The tennis victory by Frankie Parker gave the Davis Cup back to the United States today. Leading England two to one, when the day's play began, the American king needed only one victory in the two remaining single matches to give the cup back home again. Parker quickly supplied the winning margin by downing Charley Hare, the lumbering British giant, 6-2, 6-4 and 6-2.

Police Guard Plant

Cleveland, July 27—Four hundred policemen kept a steady patrol today outside the Stawling Corigan-McKinney plant of Republic Steel Corporation to guard against a recurrence of the strike rioting in which one man was killed and at least 80 others injured.

The seven o'clock change of shifts this morning was accomplished without incident.

Observers on the scene reported the situation entirely quiet and it was indicated the number of police on hand would be gradually reduced during the day.

Eight men remained in hospitals as the aftermath of the rioting of the past 24 hours. One was in a serious condition. The other injured were released after treatment. Six men, said by police to be strike pickets, were held without charge at central police station in connection with the most serious of the outbursts which started at 10 p. m., last night, and continued until well past one o'clock this morning.

At least sixty persons were injured during the violent three-hour strike fight marked by the invasion of the CIO Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, by a crowd of more than 300 non-strikers. Windows in the building were smashed and furniture overturned.

'GO HOME NOW' REBELLION SWEEPS HOUSE AND SENATE

Both Houses Eager to End the Sessions As Quickly As Possible

TO WITHHOLD BILLS

By William K. Hutchinson
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 27—(INS)—A "go home now" rebellion swept House and Senate today while Administration leaders struggled to hold a reluctant Congress in session long enough to enact the legislative program favored by President Roosevelt.

This program, facing a hazardous future, included new wage and hour legislation, a new housing act and bills to extend sugar import quotas, close tax loopholes and reform the judicial procedure in lower Federal courts.

There was overwhelming sentiment on Capitol Hill to pass only those measures encountering little or no opposition, and postpone all controversial issues until next year. This sentiment increased in the face of undercover threats of filibusters against major legislation and the failure of the Administration to heal the wounds incurred in the Senate's five month battle over the President's Supreme Court bill.

Administration leaders planned to hold back the judicial reform bill until other legislation is enacted. Foes of the President's original bill, who have drafted the substitute dealing only with minor Federal courts, were willing to go along with this program for a few days but threatened to force a final vote on it by the end of the week.

This maneuver was reported to have the backing of Vice President Garner, who favors adjournment of Congress by August 5. Some other important Democrats, who fear further legislative rows will serve only to create permanent schisms in the party, will support it.

TO PUT WARNING LIGHT ON OLD PIERS IN CREEK

Well Known Boatman, George Cherry, Says Survey Has Already Been Made

FISHING IS POPULAR

BRIDGEWATER, July 27—Row-boating on the Neshaminy Creek here has undergone a great revival, according to George B. Cherry, proprietor of Cherry's Boat Landing, and this revival has been attributed largely to the enactment of the law in Pennsylvania which legalized Sunday fishing.

"It is still a far cry from the time in the late 19th century when we had more than 50 rowboats anchored at our floats here, but during the entire summer all our boats have been out each Sunday. There are now approximately 18 boats tied up here," Cherry said.

"Of course motorboating still continues apace," Cherry stated, "but Sunday fishing has given many families a pleasant day of recreation that would not have otherwise been enjoyed."

Now, each Sunday, families come and take these boats out. Many of them bring lunches and make a complete day of it. Catches, however, have not been exceedingly large. Catfish, sunfish, eels, perch, and carp have made up most of the catches.

On a Sunday now the rowboats may be seen from Newportville to the mouth of the Neshaminy. A favorite spot for fishermen is near the mouth of the creek. Near the Bristol Pike bridge is also another favorite spot.

"Some of the old time fishermen come Saturday evening and take boats out and fish until early Sunday morning for eels. Night time is the best time to catch eels and the Sunday law has given these persons an extended night of fishing if they so desire," Cherry pointed out.

Speaking of traffic on the Creek Cherry said that these rowboats can be navigated over very shallow water. There are some spots, however, that are treacherous for boats that draw several feet of water. One of these spots is almost in front of the landing. Here the remains of the piers that carried the old Bristol Pike bridge across the Neshaminy are still standing. At low tide there is very little water covering them. Just a few weeks ago a motorboat stove its bottom in and five persons narrowly escaped serious injury when it struck this submerged rock pier.

Work on the erection of a blinker light on the central submerged stone pier got under way this morning with the appearance of a government barge. Several men will spend the better part of a week erecting the warning signal at the danger spot. It is reported that this light will act as a warning to boatmen until such time as the rest of the submerged pier has been completely removed.

Commenting on the appearance of the workmen, Cherry said: "With this blinker light to warn boatmen, a very serious problem will have been solved. I hope, however, that the government may see its way clear to remove the foundation completely at some early time in the future."

Admits Murdering Woman He Loved

New York, July 27—A red patent leather belt drawn taut around the lovely white throat of a wealthy Jackson Heights matron today ended in death her illicit love affair with a jobless automobile salesman, eight years her junior. The slain woman is Mrs. Florence Jackson, 37, mother of two small children. Charged with her murder is Stanley A. Martin, Jr., 29, unemployed salesman. He is the father of one child and is separated from his wife.

"She asked me to kill her," Martin sobbed to police. "Florence argued we were both married and it was impossible for us to go on. I took a red leather belt from her dress, put it around her neck, and pulled and pulled."

FLEAS INVADE HOMES AT THE COUNTY SEAT

Three Residences Infested and Occupants Are Bitten
By the Insects

BREED IN DAMP HOUSES

DOYLESTOWN, July 27—Residents of the County Seat are waging war against an invasion of fleas which have made the lives of a number of individuals miserable.

Within the past few weeks, three County Seat residences have become infested by fleas which live only in houses and attack people.

In one of the local houses, the fleas, which are so small they can swarm through a door or crack without being detected, lodged near a hot water heater. Dark, warm and damp interiors are swell breeding places.

Dr. John Bridgeman, County Seat pharmacist, today exhibited a flea which measured slightly less than one-sixteenth of an inch in length and is a brownish black color.

The first indication that fleas are in the house is when the people begin to suffer terrific and countless bites on the body which resemble those of mosquitoes.

"In some cases they are known as sand fleas, but they have never been known to bite cats or dogs as other fleas do but only human beings," said Dr. Bridgeman.

The most efficacious treatment that Dr. Bridgeman can recommend is applications of camphor. To exterminate them in two County Seat houses 119 pounds of camphor were used applying it liberally on the floor because the fleas will live beneath rugs and washboards.

That the flea invasions are not unique is realized, for several years ago a well-known Philadelphia mansion, which was boarded up tight for the summer while the family were at Bar Harbor, was so teeming with the myriad insects that no one was able to enter in the fall.

Thus far a residence on West Court and two on East State street have been flea stricken.

Truck Tire Leaves Rim, Crashing Into Lunch Car

MORRISVILLE, July 27—A large tire came off a truck as the vehicle was moving east on Bridge street, near Washington, on Sunday night. A serious accident was narrowly averted.

The truck, owned by the J. M. Transportation Company of Camden, N. J., and driven by Santo Peitte, of Hammononton, was traveling at a good rate of speed when the outside tire of a rear dual wheel left the vehicle and rolled down the street ahead of the truck.

Officer Andrew Thompson was standing inside the lunch car at Washington and Bridge streets, and his attention was attracted by the noise of the rim on the concrete. Thompson and a waiter, Robert Wahl, jumped aside just as the heavy wheel struck the side of the diner and upset a cigarette machine inside the building. The wheel, which weighed about 300 pounds, put a large dent in the side of the lunch car.

HOLD THREE, CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Morrisville Theatre Manager
Alleges Trio Conspired
To Win $75 Prize

GET FIRST HEARING

MORRISVILLE, July 27—Three men were held in $500 bail each by Justice of Peace Neal Nolan, charged with conspiring to win fraudulently a $75 prize at the Community Theatre, here, last Friday night.

The men: Tony Tonzini, Trenton; Ralph Leonard, West Philadelphia, and Alexander Nyer, Morrisville.

Philip Garber, manager of the theatre, who presented a confession purportedly signed by Leonard, alleges that the three men planned to share the prize money. Garber charges that Nyer, who had been chosen from the audience to draw the winning ticket out of a cage, had palmed a ticket with Tonzini's number on it. Allegedly pretending that he had selected Tonzini's number in the normal manner, Nyer announced him as the winner.

Tonzini was presented with a check for $75 Friday night; but the manager later became suspicious and stopped payment. It was charged that Tonzini's number corresponded with a number taken from a book of tickets that was not supposed to have been used on Friday night.

Claiming that they participated in the drawing in good faith, both Tonzini and Nyer denied the allegations. Leonard and Tonzini were arrested by Constable Edward Roberts, Jr., and Nyer was apprehended by Chief of Police Albert Cooper and Officer Andrew Thompson.

ADJOURN

Feverish strain and deadly discussions in Washington's baking heat make constructive legislation impossible. Mourning the loss of "Joe" Robinson, Congress should quit and go home.

As President Roosevelt says and the Treasury insists, the first question before the Country is that of balancing the national budget. The Nation's financial house must be put in order. All else new and creating bitter discussions put aside, the financial and monetary urgencies will come to the front, where they belong.

Success of Administration policies already in force is at stake. The Administration will have a plenty to occupy it and may obtain credit for a large achievement if it concentrates on and succeeds in making good its budget-balancing plans.

Robinson gone, President Roosevelt's stubborn insistence to the end probably cannot effect passage in the Senate of the substitute Court bill's round-about method of packing the Supreme Court. The substitute has been shown to be as bad as the original bill. His continuance of a last-ditch, party-wrecking fight can be but viewed as an effort by the President to force Congress to take his orders, whatever the orders may be.

Court action side-tracked, the chief obstacles to adjournment seem to be the wage-hours bill and the latest Wallace regulation and new subsidization of agriculture. These call for much better than rubber-stamp approval. The "ever normal granary" threatens hardly less than perpetually unbalanced national budgets. In the light of late labor developments, the situation argues for changes of the present rather than more law suiting the CIO unions.

THE QUEST OF BEAUTY

Women all over the world are said to be spending a good deal more money for cosmetics and other aids to beauty. Women are told that they should not depend on beauty alone, and that a girl who has a pretty face and nothing behind it is headed for disaster.

The ambitious girl, if she is wise, will put things inside her head as often as she applies any treatment to the outside. But when a woman has both brains and beauty, she comes pretty near getting what she wants. The beautiful face is a kind of advertising that is sure to win attention, but to retain that favor, the goods have to be delivered, in the form of useful work and correct judgment.

Anything can happen, if Mae West is caught without an answer.

What's the etiquette about a Senator saying "Thanks for the ride," when getting off a President's coat tails?

There will be a slight pause in Mr. Lewis' sensational feat of bending the independent steel operators, while the strong man sends out for a towel.

History is vague on who first called this a temperate zone, but he and the fellow who named it the Pacific Ocean must have been one and the same.

Weekly Letter to Home-Makers

A Letter Written by Miss Edna M. Ferguson to Home-Makers will appear in each Tuesday's issue of The Bristol Courier. Through this medium Miss Ferguson will give many helpful hints to home-makers.

Dear Friends:

Welcome as are these summery treats of chilled salad, plates of sandwiches and clinking glasses of iced tea, there are times when the entire family yearns for a tender, sizzling steak.

When the housewife obeys that impulse these days, it costs real money. For beef has soared steadily in price over the last months and weeks until the latest increases in most cuts brought the level 39 per cent higher than it was at this time just one year ago.

In the majority of markets, the choice porterhouse steak is selling at $5.7 a pound, in comparison with forty cents in the Summer of 1936. Sirloin has jumped at least ten cents a pound in the year, figuring about forty-six cents now and the once inexpensive round steak brings about forty-seven cents, as compared to thirty-five a pound a year ago. Sirloin roast is up ten cents a pound.

Although flank steaks cannot be considered as bargains, they are still selling for less than other beef cuts. Therefore, it behooves the thrifty housewife to scan her recipe file for methods of making the cheaper cuts tender and interesting.

Some relatively inexpensive steaks recommended by government home economists are chuck, shoulder and rump. The lower-priced roasts are chuck rib, cross arm, clod, rump; stewing cuts and the neck, plate and brisket and the flank, shank and heel of the round. Rib and sirloin roasts are almost in the luxury class.

Although pot roasts of beef and beef stew with dumplings are not always appetizing main dishes for August, a delicious stuffed flank steak is a good solution of this problem.

A savory stuffing spread over the flank steak will transform this cut into a feast. Roll the steak up tightly, jelly-roll fashion, fasten with skewers, or tie tightly with string and sear the roll on all sides in an iron frying pan, or in a Dutch oven. Finish the cooking in a moderate oven.

There are many variations of this dish. The meat may be stuffed and then combined with any combination of vegetables. For a one-dish meal, surround the meat with medium-sized pared potatoes, one bunch of pared, sliced carrots, two cups of tiny, peeled white onions, celery or parsley leaves. Add seasonings and

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

MEAT prices are again rising. Best values in meat are to be found in forequarter cuts of lamb, veal and beef, in that order. Eggs and cheese are excellent choices.

It is the exceptional vegetable now which does not fall in the cheap or reasonable class. Outstanding values are to be found in salad greens and vegetables, particularly lettuce, tomatoes, celery, cucumbers and green peppers.

New apples are more plentiful, plums are cheap and abundant. Plentiful supplies of peaches and Bartlett pears are promised for the near future.

The following meals may be eaten either outdoors or in.

one cup of boiling water, after first searing the stuffed roll as first described.

Cover and bake in a slow oven at 325 degrees F. for two hours. Two pounds of flank steak, with this quantity of vegetables, should serve six.

Another variation is to cover the seared, stuffed roll with one small tin of canned tomatoes, or sliced, fresh tomatoes, which will assure a tender steak. Some people like the flavor of one or two whole cloves in this dish.

In utilizing the less tender cuts of meat successfully, it is necessary to remember that they should be cooked in moist heat for a relatively long time to break down, or soften the tough fibers and connective tissues and make the meat tender. In many cases, the extraction of part of the juices also is desirable. The meat may be seared first at high temperature for better flavor and then simmered slowly with a little water, stock, vegetables and seasonings until tender.

RECIPES

Tomato Jelly Salad

Three tablespoons gelatine; one-half cup cold water; one quart tomatoes, canned or fresh; two or three slices onion; one and one-half teaspoons salt; one teaspoon sugar; one tablespoon chopped green pepper; two tablespoons chopped celery; one tablespoon chopped parsley and one cup shredded cabbage.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water for five minutes. Boil the tomatoes and onion for five minutes, strain through a fine sieve, pour the hot tomato juice over the softened gelatine and stir until it is dissolved. Add the salt and sugar and chill. When the gelatine mixture is partly set, add the finely-chopped vegetables and mix well. Add more salt if needed.

If the mixture is not tart enough, add a little lemon juice or vinegar. Pour into wet custard cups, or into one large mold and chill in refrigerator until set. Turn out on crisp greens and serve with any desired dressing. Watercress is delicious with this salad.

Tomato Gumbo

Braise the following ingredients in a covered saucepan for several minutes, with butter: One stalk celery; one small onion; one small green pepper; all cut into small squares. Add three tablespoons rice and saute for another two minutes, stirring slowly.

Then add eight cups of water or meat stock and three okras cut into small pieces and cook slowly for fifteen minutes. Next add one pound peeled and cut-up tomatoes, cooking for an additional ten minutes. Season to taste, using one-half a bay leaf, if liked. Six servings.

IT PAYS TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE BRISTOL COURIER

First, because it is lower Bucks County's only daily newspaper.

Second, because Bristol is Bucks County's biggest market.

Third, because the makers and merchants who advertise in the Courier stake their reputations, in cold black type, that what you read is true. That is why each article they sell you must be so thoroughly satisfactory that you would later answer "yes" to this, the most important question a merchant can ask a customer: "Would you buy it again?"

Fourth, because the Courier daily goes into 3500 homes in this section, where it is read and re-read for its advertisements and news.

... AND TO THE ADVERTISER ...

The Courier offers a concentrated coverage of lower Bucks County. The Courier boasts a substantial increase in circulation. The Courier is relied upon in the homes of Bristol and vicinity for its news and shopping guidance. A small advertisement at little cost will bring big results.

"GREENS" WISDOM

Eat "greens" frequently at this season of the year because they taste good and not just because "they are good for you."

That is the latest suggestion of Consumers' Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Greens, fresh from nearby farms, are on the market in varieties wide enough to please the most discriminating housewife. The keen Consumers' Service recognizes the psychology of prospective greens-eaters and advises the home manager to avoid ordering the family to "eat these beet tops, or these dandelions, because they contain a lot of minerals and vitamins that you need."

Generally beet tops, chard, dandelion greens, leeks, spinach and similar greens may be used in recipes for the family. All greens should be washed carefully in at least three waters and the greens should be lifted out of the pan each time to prevent the sand being washed back on the leaves when the water is emptied.

If the greens seem very dirty, use warm water the first time, and then freshen them with running cold water.

If a large amount of water is used, greens may be cooked quickly. With a small quantity of water, slightly longer cooking time is required. In either case, cook until just tender and no longer. Usually the water that clings to the leaves is sufficient for cooking spinach. Greens may be served with butter, salt and pepper, they may be rice and used with hard-boiled egg, or left-overs may be disguised in a cream sauce. Vinegar adds novel flavor. Use cooked greens also in soups and in vegetable salads.

BOSTON BEES HEADED FOR FIRST FLIGHT

By Lawton Carver
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 27—(INS)—The Boston Bees haven't won a pennant since they came through for the first time in 1914 and last season they finished in what is termed the depths of the National League. Bluntly, they wound up in sixth place.

That's the club which is furnishing one of the surprises of the 1937 campaign—the club, in fact, which is being given a chance to finish in the first division. Assuming that the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants—in that order or reversed—will hold down the first two places in the standings at the finish of hostilities, the rest of the first division very likely will be composed of the Bees and Pittsburgh Pirates or St. Louis Cardinals.

That brings a marked and sudden change in the pennant situation. Only a few weeks ago, the Pirates and Cardinals were being touted along with the Cubs and Giants as potential pennant-winners.

However, the Pirates lack the all-around ability on what they have shown to date and, over the same stretch, the Cards have been downright pitiful and getting worse.

It may be that either Pirates or Cards still will suddenly go from tepid to very hot and land in the lead or in second place, but a safer bet seems to be that one or the other must drop out of the first division. The only reason both drop out is because there isn't another team besides Boston, to make any kind of race at all.

The Bees all but broke the Cards' back in that recent series when Lou Fette and Johnny Lanning allowed only a couple of runs in winning a double header, handing Dizzy Dean a defeat in one of the games, then came back the next day with old Danny Macfayden to score a shutout. That's the kind of pitching the Bees have been getting of late and the kind that will make it tough for the rest of the National League from here on out.

It's the same old story: the Bees won't get very close to the pennant themselves, but they will make it extremely tough for the team that does. And apparently the Bees are going to do it with pitching alone. They haven't had a regular hitter among the leaders in so long they wouldn't know how to act with one.

Jim Bottomley is NO. 1 in popularity.

By Pat Robinson
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 27—(INS)—If a manager's personal popularity could assure a pennant, the St. Louis Browns might still win in the American League.

For their new pilot, Sunny Jim Bottomley, probably is the most beloved character in baseball.

Jim is as popular with players as he is with the fans, not only in St. Louis, but all over the country.

Whoever nicknamed him Sunny Jim, hit on a happy moniker.

Who can ever forget him with his cap stuck jauntily over one ear, his swaggering walk and his infectious grin?

And what a ball player Jim was! He could field with the best of them and he could hit for distance.

If memory is not at fault, Jim still holds the National League record for runs driven in in one game—12—and if I recall correctly that feat was achieved at the expense of the Dodgers.

Jim's appearance at the Polo Grounds, home of the Giants, or Ebbets' Field, home of the Dodgers, was always the signal for an outburst of

Try, Try Again

By BURNLEY

Back with us again is T. O. M. Sopwith, British challenger for the America's Cup, greatest of international yacht racing trophies.

Sopwith is a guy who refuses to be intimidated by jinxes, hoodoos and past precedents. No challenger has ever taken the America's mug away from these shores, and it hasn't been for lack of trying. Good old Sir Thomas Lipton broke his heart in the attempt, but none of his numerous "Sham-rocks" was equal to the task.

Sopwith took up the burden of British yacht racing after Lipton, and made his first bid in 1934 with the Endeavour. This yacht was obviously better than America's defender, the Rainbow, but Harold Vanderbilt's superior sailing skill brought the U. S. defender home first in four out of six clashes. Sopwith squawked long and loud with the British Phil Scott traditional cry of foul, and for a time vowed he would never return to challenge for yachting honors.

However, time heals the losers' wounds, and the British yachtsman is back again with Endeavour II, a very formidable challenger.

applause from the fans. They loved him and they rooted for him even when he was beating their team with amazingly deft fielding and great slugging.

Jim was born in Oglesby, Ill., 37 years ago. He broke into professional baseball with Sioux City in the Western League. He played a year with Mitchell in the Dakota League, a year with Houston and part of a season with Syracuse, and the Cardinals then brought him to the National League late in the season of 1922.

Jim was a long, gangling kid in those days, but he could bust a ball to a fare-thee-well. He immediately began rapping the fences and kept up the bombardment for 14 years, amassing a batting average of .312 over that long span.

He was in four world's series with the Cardinals and in 1928 was awarded the National League Most Valuable Player prize.

Jim knows the game as well as any body in it. He can coach youngsters about as well as anybody and he should be able to direct the team on the field as well as the next.

Just how strict a disciplinarian he will prove to be only time can tell. Offhand, one would say that Jim would rather save the boys like Uncle Wilbur Robinson used to do than roast them like John McGraw was wont to do.
